ABOUT PUKEHINA

Origin of name: "Puke" means hill and "hina" means grey or grey-haired, so one could assume Pukehina means "grey-haired hill" - but Hina is also the personification of the moon.

Population: Six-hundred permanent residents, with a massive increase over summer.

Location: Three hours' drive from Auckland, 109km from Hamilton, 35km from Tauranga and 40 minutes from Rotorua and Whakatane. The new eastern arterial route, under construction, will make some trips faster.

Town slogan: It's too small for a slogan.

Town mascot: It's too little for one of those, too.

Most prominent industry: The two dairies, the campground, farming and fishing. And the other main business is First National Real Estate, owned and run by the aptly named Joy.

Source of pride: The uncrowdedness - it's an untouched corner of the world.

Best place to get a drink: The Hippy Pippy. You can play pool there, too

Best place to eat: Both of the dairies do fish 'n' chips very well.

Best walk: From Pukehina to Rogers Beach at low tide. It's about three hours there and back, with big cliffs on one side, and there's a pohutukawa tree along the way with a tyre attached, if you fancy a swing.

Did you know? On Friday nights there are drinks down at the volunteer fire station as well as quick-fire raffles.

Safety warnings: Swim between the flags because it is a pretty vigorous beach.

Locals say: If you catch more than three crayfish, you need to give at least one to your neighbour.

Place to be in February 2014: The Annual PFCI is all that you need to know about in February 2014.
