TESTING PART 1 “SUCCESS”

Well testing Part 1 was undertaken in September 2011 with mixed results. The first week we hired a bloke who has a PHD, DIP & STD in testing. Testing you say well this covered everything. Any how those qualification didn't mean shit as he only pulled up 3 cod and a red thingy. So we sacked his ass.

The next week Lachlan, Ross and James all went out. Was a nice day to start off with but then were drifting at a great rate of knots. Well to keep it short Lachlan cleaned up. Most fish, Most Species, Biggest Fish, best fishing position. 2 Snapper and a gurnard. With that his odds have how changed and are just of the lead pack..

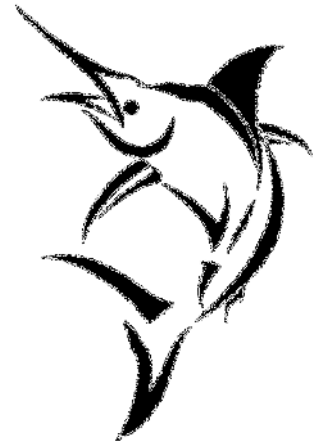

Gurnard you say. Well this might be a special Species of the day on the PFCI.

But the winner for the day was the long line. Landing 5 nice snapper in only 2 hrs worth of waiting.

See the next page for all the Photos.

The facilities were 8 star. Have also been advised on the “if its brown flush it down, if its yellow let it mellow rule.” The Word is a lemon tree might be planted specially for the watering it will get from the PFCI.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

PASSPORTS

Also those without Passports you don't have long so you will have to get on top of this if you haven't already done so. Hardest part is dealing with Australia Post and with Christmas coming up well you can imagine how busy they will be.

NEW SPECIES - WINNER TAKES ALL

In the Recent months the bay of plenty has discovered a new Ocean species. This will be part of the PFCI special species list. You catch and able to put into your boat and deliver it back to base you will take out the PFCI 2012 and well it wont be worth the rest of us fishing so we will have to drink cans..

The maori pronounce this new species as the following CON - TAIN - ER.

For the white Fellers its Container.

These come in a few different sizes with the common being 20foot and 40 foot.

Maybe this can be part of the catch and release program???

Well if you haven't heard there was a ship that hit a reef in the bay of plenty. This is only 22km from our resort. The ship had been spilling oil in to the ocean and there for has been washing ashore. The owners have ensured me that there is currently no signs of oil at the resort. Hopefully it stays this way.

Will update you in the new year on the latest but hopefully with 4 months to go it should be all sorted.
