

PFCI 2014 FORM GUIDE

BRADEN FALKINER

Braden was one of the first to be on the reserve way back when the first trip was booked. So he gets his chance to prove the wait was worth it.. As his picture states he does like a drink or 2. Not sure on fishing ability and not rating good in the odds. But he may just need the first trip under his sleeve and then come back in 2015 to earn some serious points..

Will be competitive but not looking good in any of the Odds

ADAM MALEC

Adam is well known for the PFCI points system and spread sheet. The odds aren't on his side so could be the one that slowly comes up as the trip gets going.. Go Karting will be his biggest proving point. Sitting 4th in the odds he could easily break into a podium finish..

Look out for Adam in the Go Karting. This will be where he earns for serious Points

GEORGE ABBOTT.

Not a great performance in 2013, May have received a few points if he didn't have to leave early for a wedding.. Will be out in 2014 to earn some serious points.. Maybe the change in team mate will help as I'm sure he will be keen to break the Smells like fish partnership and go with something like Catch some fish..

Will be odds on to be the drunkest bloke for one of the big nights. Not poling well in the odds. This might be the year of the comeback

PFCI 2014 CREW FORM GUIDE

BEN SMITH.

Great odds on in all events with top 2 finish in all categories.. Will have the go Karting more or less in the bag so he will be racing against the clock to pull off the overall best lap time.. Could have been the best team again but didn't pull in the results in 2013.. He will be looking at a catch over 13 to be in the running.. Team mate will be the determining factor if all the top 2 prediction come through.

With go Karting in the bag the next real favourite category is to come back with the biggest fish..

BEN JAMEISON.

A lot better performance in 2013 than the 2012 PFCI. Will be looking to back up his 2013 and hold onto the best team award and stay in the top 3 in go karts.. Can Ben.J be the one to knock mark off his throne.. May come down to his team mate in 2014.

Looking at a top 3 finish in 3 or the 4 categories.. Just cant break into top 3 odd for the PFCI champion due to 2012 performance

LACHLAN HUNTER.

Just like George Lachlan will be looking at breaking the "Smells like fish" name and going for a team that catches fish. The early departure in 2013 didn't help but i did hear they had the winning hang over feeling on there travels back.. His new team mate will be the deciding factor on how far he goes in this competition

Just holding out side the top 4 in most categories he will be hoping the break in to the top 4 or even top 3 in at least one..

PFCI 2014 CREW FORM GUIDE

MARK PORTELLI.

Is there anything stopping this guy, Took out the PFCI championship for the 2nd year in a row.. A new teammate may cause mark to lose points or he may just reel in another championship. Handicaps may be in place in 2015 if mark pulls off another victory.. Scoring well in the odds go Karting will be the biggest factor in losing points.

You just cant go past him winning another championship. Can he also beat his Most fish Record.

JAMES BURNS.

The odds are looking pretty consistent for a top four finish in all categories. Will be hoping to reel in the biggest fish with just missing out in the past few years.. Look out for a duel between James and Ben J in the go Karting. Will ensure the go pros are on hand for that one.. He has proved that sea sickness is no issue so his team mate will have to make sure they are up for the challenge..

Consistent finish in all rounds he will be looking at a record breaking fish to put his name in the history books..

2012

2013

